

What kind of girl does a Bee Gee like? Is she tall, short, twiggly or plump? Is she a blonde, a redhead or a brunette? Sally Cork talked to the boys and reports back to all keen fans.

ROBIN GIBB who is 5 ft. 9 in. likes girls that are smaller than he is.

"After all, it is no fun getting a crick in the neck just so you can look into her eyes!" he said.

He doesn't like the thinner than thin look either. He likes his girlfriend to be well rounded, but never fat.

"There is a great difference between having curves where they should be, and where they should be hidden."

His favourite actresses are Julie Andrews and Audrey Hepburn, both have short hair which he thinks is great.

Robin prefers town dollies to country girls and he likes to stay at home in his flat in London rather than going out to gay night spots. He has a steady girlfriend called Molly. They have been going out together since May. Marriage? Not yet surely, after all he is only eighteen.

His twin brother Maurice has a very famous girlfriend, Lulu. He likes small modern girls who aren't twiggly thin, who are down to earth and have a sense of humour. One would have guessed that he liked Lulu just from that description. He and Lulu have been going out for four months now. They like going to parties and to the Speakeasy club in London. Maurice is living with his manager at the moment.

Barry, their elder brother, likes tall, thin girls with long blonde hair and a sense of humour. He likes them to be slightly dreamy but they must be able to make conversation. A dumb blonde isn't his ideal at all! Swedish girls he finds specially attractive. He doesn't have a steady girlfriend at the moment. On a date, he likes to stay at home or go out to a film. He rather likes his girlfriends to remain in the background and not to play any part in his Bee Gees life.

Vince prefers the slim, small girls with short hair and nice legs. He thinks that oriental girls are super and he likes a girl to be a domesticated homely type like himself. Vince, who is twenty-two, would be very happy to settle down and get married if the right girl came along. He has a flat in London's Chelsea and would stay in England if he did get married. Vince likes to stay at home with a girlfriend and he often practices the guitar—so it's no good if she's not musical! It sounds like a wild evening but then if the girl is the domesticated sort, I guess she wouldn't mind.

If you want to stand a chance with Colin you mustn't on any account back-comb your hair. He hates that! He likes long dark hair that hangs straight down the back. He also likes small girls who are 5 ft. 3 in. to 5 ft. 5 in. They must be down to earth and able to hold a sensible conversation. But he intends to stay carefree for a long time to come. His idea of a night out is going to the Speakeasy club or for a drive in his mini racing car.

Well, would you make an ideal girlfriend for your fave Bee Gee? Or, if not, can you mould yourself into the perfect girl for one of them? There's always a chance. . . .
